Airetrak®

The Airetrak® is a microprocessor based timer and fan speed control. The override button provides full speed operation: Press the override button to run the fan at full speed for twenty minutes, or press again to turn it off and resume the program.

Programming the Airetrak®

- Slide the ON/OFF switch to on.
- Set Time: Determine how many hours each day the Airetrak will operate, either 24 hours or 12 hours. (the default is 24 hours).
For 24 Hour Operation: Set the Speed Dial to 24 hour (24h) and press either the AM or PM set button, the Override Button will blink once for AM, twice for PM.
- Set Duty Cycle: Determine how many minutes of each hour the Airetrak will operate. Duty cycle is set in 5 minute intervals. 1 equals 5 minutes of operation, 2 equals 10 minutes of operation, etc. Turn the Speed Dial to the desired intervals, then press the Duty Cycle. The Override Button will blink 3 times..
- Set Speed: Determine the voltage to be sent to the system from the Airetrak. 1 is full line voltage, 2 is reduced 5% etc., 12 is minimum. Turn Speed Dial to desired position to set airflow.
NOTE: Because the Airetrak is used with so many different makes & models of equipment, in so many configurations, we do not publish flow rates. The only reliable way to determine airflow is by direct measurement.
- Remove Battery Tab: Removing the Battery Tab initiates the battery circuit. This battery circuit will maintain the program you have just installed.
- Test the Override Circuit: Press the Override Button. The internal LED will glow yellow. Press again and the yellow light will go out.
