Whole-House Dehumidifier with Fresh Air Ventilation

Honeywell

In any season, excess humidity in your home can make for an uncomfortable indoor environment. Dampness, stickiness and odors are just a few of the many symptoms associated with air that has too much moisture. Honeywell has a solution with our Whole-house Dehumidifier. Unlike portable, single-room units, a Whole-house Dehumidifier is installed in your home's central heating and cooling system, and works to eliminate excess moisture in all rooms throughout your home. Plus, Honeywell's DH90 Dehumidifier features an integrated ventilation control that introduces fresh, filtered air into your home as stale, moist air is being removed.

DH90 Whole-House Dehumidifier

LESS MOISTURE. FRESH AIR. MORE COMFORT THROUGHOUT.

Increased Comfort —

Automatically senses excess moisture and works to lower humidity levels throughout your entire home.

Meets American Lung Association® Health House® guidelines.

Improved Air Circulation —

Integrated fresh air ventilation control works with your heating and cooling equipment to bring in fresh, filtered outside air while removing stale, humid indoor air.

Whole-House —

More effective and less expensive than portable, single-room dehumidifiers. Plus – no need to empty tanks. Merv 11 filter comes standard with the unit.

Large Capacity —

Removes up to 90 pints of water from the home per day.

Energy Savings—

Offers more moisture removal while using less energy by recovering energy generated in the moisture transfer between incoming and outgoing air streams.

Easy To Use —

Set-it-and-forget-it control automatically provides optimum moisture removal and ventilation control. No need to change settings or make adjustments.

Piece of Mind —

Lower humidity levels can help prevent the growth of mold and mildew.
